

automated SELF-CLEANING Litter Boxes

Cats bring so much joy to our lives. From soothing purrs to crazy kitten hijinks, cat ownership is rewarding—not to mention entertaining.

That is, until it's time to scoop the litter box. And if you have several cats, you've got your work cut out for you. An automatic, self-cleaning litter box makes life so much better for you and your feline friends.

When your new automatic litter box arrives, you'll want to put it to work immediately. Who doesn't love the idea of never having to scoop litter again? But for the sake of your cats, don't turn it on just yet.

Cats need an adjustment period to adapt to new things—especially when it affects their bathroom.

use the same brand of litter

Leave it unplugged for the first week or so, until your fur babies are comfortable with the new arrangement.

Then plug it in and turn it on so your cats get familiar with the new sound of an electric litter box.

no-mess no-stress

Once your litter box no longer fazes your furry friends, you can start enjoying the no-mess, no-stress life with your new automatic, self-cleaning litter box.

The convenience of automated litter boxes are well worth the cost, especially for multiple cats.